

The Department of Medieval Studies at Central European University (Budapest) would like to share some information about its programs, application possibilities as well as the stipends offered by us (see the attachments), and to call for application. The application deadline is February 1, 2017.

Central European University is a graduate level, English-language University situated in Budapest. Our department offers two-year MA and PhD programs, coordinated with the Bologna process requirements and accredited in Hungary (that is, accepted throughout Europe) as well as in the US; and a one-year MA accredited in the United States. The one-year MA program remains the option for more advanced students familiar with at least one of our fields of concentration, while the two-year MA program aims at meeting the needs of students who have earned a three-year degree in history or another relevant discipline (see also the attached flyer of the Department). CEU offers full or partial tuition waivers and various other types of financial support on a competitive basis. For an update on recent policies please visit: <https://www.ceu.edu/financialaid>.

The Department, together with the Department of History, hosts numerous research units, among them the Center for Eastern Mediterranean Studies, the Center for Religious Studies, the Jewish Studies Program etc., and offers a number of specializations such as: the Advanced Certificate in Religious Studies \(ACRS\), Advanced Certificate in Eastern Mediterranean Studies \(EMS\), Jewish Studies Specialization \(JSS\) and Advanced Certificate in Political Thought. For a list of specializations please check the departmental website (<http://medievalstudies.ceu.edu/non-degree-specializations>). In order to make the work of students more effective, the Source Language Teaching Group offers Latin and Greek courses and, on demand, Hebrew, Turkish, Arabic, Bosnian/Croatian/Serbian, Armenian, Old Georgian, Syriac, Russian, Ottoman, Turkish, Old Church Slavonic and Persian courses as well.

We would also like to call your attention to the two-year MA program in Cultural Heritage Studies. This interdisciplinary and interdepartmental program is coordinated by our department and offered together with other CEU units such as the Departments of History, Sociology and Social Anthropology, Environmental Sciences and Policy, Legal Studies and the School of Public Policy, plus the CEU Business School. It focuses on developing aptitudes for the critical assessment of tangible structures and objects such as buildings, monuments, works of art, as well as cultural landscape and intangible heritage such as traditions, languages, and knowledge.

Our department also participates in the international ERASMUS exchange program, which offers a 3-12 month long study abroad for PhD and two-year MA students as well as an internship for the one-year MA students. For more information please visit: <https://acro.ceu.edu/erasmus-program>.

For undergraduate students who are interested in our program, CEU organizes an interdisciplinary conference in August 2017 at which undergraduate students are more than welcome to participate. For more information please visit <https://medievalstudies.ceu.edu/events> . For the video about the previous undergraduate conference “Faith and Power” held on August 4-7, 2016, please see: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Xjo6eDmfZEO>

One can also catch a glimpse of our activities through the Department of Medieval Studies’ CEU Medieval Radio (<http://medievalradio.org/>), which is a twenty-four-hour webcast dedicated to medieval and early modern history and culture, as well as pre-1700 music. CEU Medieval Radio webcasts interviews, talk shows, and lectures by resident and guest scholars and is devoted to broadcasting authentic medieval and Renaissance music.

One can find further details about our programs at <http://medievalstudies.ceu.edu/> and we would be glad to give you any other information you might request. There is a possibility to like us on Facebook at <https://www.facebook.com/ceu.med.stud/> and to learn about events, news and other opportunities inside and outside CEU Medieval Studies.

CEU as a US-accredited university in Europe and our Department in particular would very much welcome your questions and interest.
