

MASTER OF ARTS IN “CULTURAL HERITAGE STUDIES: ACADEMIC RESEARCH, POLICY, MANAGEMENT”

two-year degree program at Central European University, Budapest (Hungary)

About us

The Cultural Heritage Studies Program is an interdepartmental and interdisciplinary MA program accredited in the US, organized, developed and administered by a program committee of faculty members from a variety of academic disciplines and units.

Cultural heritage, as understood by Central European University’s Cultural Heritage Studies Program, is the legacy of physical artifacts (cultural property) and intangible attributes of a group or society inherited from the past.

Why CEU?

- innovative, multidisciplinary academic environment
- favorable financial conditions (full and partial scholarships, tuition waivers)
- international faculty and student body
- English as the language of instruction
- activity marked by a large series of publications and international events
- excellent location in the historical city center of Budapest

Why Cultural Heritage Studies?

The multidisciplinary MA program was designed with the active involvement of various fields related to cultural heritage, including historical studies, cultural anthropology and sociology, humanities, environmental studies and policy, public policy, business and management studies.

The second year of the program offers two main streams:

- Academic Research and Protection of Cultural Heritage
- Cultural Heritage Management and Policy

The program is intended to educate individuals who wish to become heritage experts and practitioners offering a variety of theoretical and methodological approaches with a strong emphasis on practical knowledge and skills based on fieldwork, and internships with local, regional and global heritage organizations. Permanent and visiting faculty members include experts in a variety of disciplines, such as archaeology, art history, anthropology, history, legal studies, and environmental studies.
